2ND RUN

TrinityRail 3281cf 2-Bay Covered Hopper

Our second run of this most popular hopper is due to arrive in the Summer of 2016. We have five exciting new road names for this run.

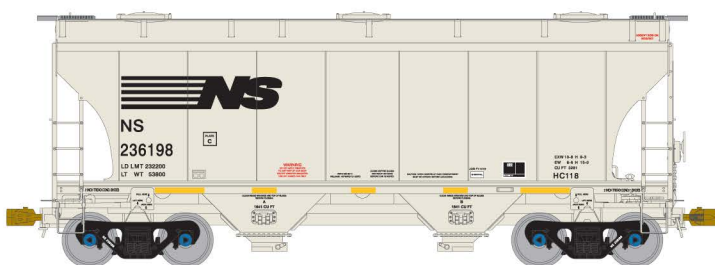

Introduced in the late 1990s, TrinityRail's 3281 cubic foot capacity, 2-bay covered hopper is ideal for handling high-density products such as sand, roofing granules, and cement. Measuring 41'-11" long, these cars are equipped with three or five round loading hatches and a pair of gravity outlets to facilitate off-loading those commodities.

Based on similar, larger covered hoppers in the TrinityRail catalog, these cars are distinctive in comparison to older 2-bay covered hopper designs thanks to their overhanging, arched roof profile, heavy top reinforcement chord, and folded jack pads at the bolsters. This design has proven to be popular with shippers and railroads alike, and can be seen traveling singly in manifest trains, in large groups, and even in "unit trains" hauling a single commodity.

Due in mid 2016, our second run of this exquisite HO Scale 3281 cf 2-Bay Covered Hopper features state-of-the-art tooling from one of the premier HO scale tool houses.

Additional features include:

- New tooling for trucks and wheelsets
- Photoetched coupler walkovers
- Wire formed grab irons
- Photoetched roof walk
- Engineering plastic cut bars
- NMRA compliant weight
- Road # specific lettering: LD LMT, LT WT, Trinity Rail Job #, etc.
- Scale size lower shelf working couplers without trip pin

2ND RELEASE!

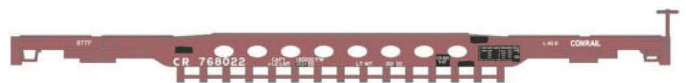

General Steel Castings offered a 60-ton well car in its product line of one piece cast steel car bodies in 1958. The buyer railroads purchased the components and assembled the cars in their own shops.

The body and detail parts are injection molded plastic, while the well and underframe are diecast. Intricate and accurate detail includes a free-standing vertical brakewheel. These cars ride at the prototypically-correct height, with the well a mere ten scale inches above the rails. The model rides on Atlas' Barber S-2 friction-bearing truck frames fitted with Fox Valley Models 28" low-profile wheelsets, and features body-mounted Micro-Trains® #2004 couplers.

Operation of this model over curved trackage of less than 10-inch radius is not recommended.
